3 Saving your comments

Fields marked with * are mandatory and must be filled in before your answers can be saved. Apart from this, you can save at any time by clicking the corresponding button at the bottom of the page:

A screenshot of a form submission interface. At the top, there is a horizontal line. Above the line, the text '* mandatory fields' is written in red. Below the line, there is a blue button with the word 'submit' in white text. To the right of the button, there is a vertical grey bar.

Each time you click the 'submit' button, an automatic e-mail with the submitted answers will be sent to the e-mail address specified by you in registration. You can also log out and continue with your comments at another time – when you log back on, the answers that have been saved for your login are displayed in the corresponding fields for you to check and edit. Please make sure that you press 'submit' before terminating submission of your comments and logging out. Data will otherwise be lost.

4 Printing

If you would like to print a paper copy of the questionnaire, you can do so anytime by pressing the button at the bottom of the page on the left.
